

Are You Interested in Supporting Women in Deep Foundations?

SPONSOR the Joint Society Women's Professional Development Skills Workshop at IFCEE 2018
Wednesday, March 7, 2018, 12:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.

DFI's Women in Deep Foundations Committee is organizing the workshop — hosted in partnership with ADSC, G-I and PDCA — to help build professional skills for women in the geotechnical engineering and foundations industry.

Highlights

- Nancy Watt of Nancy Watt Communications and a Second City Comedy Improv Conservatory graduate is conducting a dynamic, camaraderie-filled, improv-based workshop on communication and negotiation skills...infused with one ton of laughter.
- Dr. Wendy Macinkus Murphy of Babson College is introducing the concept of developmental networks and leading an interactive workshop exercise on mapping your own personal mentoring network.
- Industry representatives are presenting successful corporate initiatives in the deep foundations industry that actively support women and encourage professional development.
- A multidisciplinary panel of industry representatives are discussing the importance of confidence for a professional woman and the significance of establishing, maintaining and growing confidence.

Sponsor the Workshop with a $500 donation* to the DFI Educational Trust Women in Deep Foundations Fund which includes an acknowledgment during the Workshop and in Deep Foundations magazine. Go to www.dfitrust.org/donate.asp or fill in the form on the back and mail a check.

Register for the Workshop at www.ifcee2018.com. The cost is $225.
