CONFERENCE

4th International Conference on
PROBLEMATIC SOILS
21-23 September 2012 -Wuhan, China

Wuhan, China

INTRODUCTION PS12

The conference aims to provide an opportunity for dissemination of current practice on recent research and industry developments in the geotechnical engineering of problematic soils. Specific objectives are:

- To highlight the importance of understanding the geology and geomorphology of sites;
- To identify and address the difficult ground conditions encountered;
- To present methods (through case studies) of in-situ treatment of problematic soils, and
- To develop a more sound engineering approach for problematic soils.

The conference welcomes contributions from all areas related to geomorphology, engineering geology, geotechnical engineering (including modeling, laboratory and field assessment, footing design and remediation techniques), soil-structure interaction, building and infrastructure problems and others, associated with the many problematic soils encountered across the globe. Such soils have and continue to present challenges to engineers the world over. The ultimate aim of this conference is to bring together experts from different disciplines and countries to provide a forum to exchange idea and discuss latest development.

The Conference City - Wuhan

Wuhan is the capital of the Hubei province - a modern metropolis with unlimited possibilities, situated in the heart of China. Wuhan is an energetic city, a commercial centre of finance, industry, trade and science, with many international companies located here. Having scientific, technological and educational institutions such as Laser City and the Wuhan University, the city is also an intellectual centre.

Situated at the crossroads of central China, Wuhan is a transportation hub for air, railway as well as ferry traffic. The distance from Beijing, Shanghai and Guangzhou is more or less equal. And the giant Yangtze River (Chang Jiang), the world's third longest river, and the Han River pass through the city.

With a history that dates back more than 3,500 years, Wuhan is one of the "Chinese Famous Cities of History and Culture". Here and around East Lake you will find historical sites and beautiful nature. The main landmark inside the city is the Yellow Crane Tower.

Since 1927 Wuhan has comprised of three cities, Hankou, Hanyang, and Wuchang, which are located where the Han and Xunshi rivers join the Yangtze (Chan Jiang).

There is so much to see and experience in and around Wuhan. Wuhan.com will help you to find some of the pearls of this excellent city, the city of the "White Clouds and Yellow Crane" legend.
